HISTORIC HENDERSON CARNEGIE PUBLIC LIBRARY

JOHN JAMES AUDUBON STATE PARK & MUSEUM

On October 3, 1934, the Commonwealth of Kentucky dedicated the John James Audubon State Park and years later provided money to create the addition of a museum to the grounds. Today, the park is filled with beautiful and interesting stops for everyone. Bird watchers have some of the best views of native bird species from the wooded areas and benches of the park. Trails wrap around the park with incredible views of Kentucky and a nice walk can be enjoyed with the comfort of benches placed along the paths.

AUDUBON MILL PARK

This scenic park, located right off of the Ohio River, offers the perfect opportunity for guests who wish to spend the day enjoying and exploring the beauty of Kentucky. The park offers a beautiful, paved trail perfect for a stroll down the river and has plenty of spots to take a rest on the benches or to relax and soak in the beauty of the outdoors. Guests may want to utilize this location to enjoy a lunch from a local eatery at one of the tables or for the perfect outdoor picnic and a river overlook. The park is used annually to hold a series of festivals, concerts and events and is a frequent destination for Blue Grass and local artists to vocalize their talents to the community and visitors.
