WELCOME TO HUNTINGTON:

Huntington is a vibrant, energetic city that has managed to keep their heritage alive, while still keeping up with the progressions of modern culture. The city is part of the largest inland port in the United States, where West Virginia, Ohio, and Kentucky meet. Steamboats have always been a huge aspect of Huntington's history, as a major port for lumber, coal, and fuel during the railroad extension. Today, Huntington welcomes all visitors with open arms and wide smiles, and invites all to explore their unique shops, restaurants, museums, and historical buildings!

OLD CENTRAL CITY

Before settlement, Central City was an area where people would gather and assemble for family gatherings and hunting parties. Around 1890, a group of investors bought up several farms turning this area and the resulting town into Central City. Today, Old Central City is known as the "Antique Capital" of Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia. There are multiple shops and restaurants to enjoy even a bakery that started in 1905. There are also multiple nearby museums, including the Heritage Farm Museum & Village.

RITTER PARK ROSE GARDEN

The Ritter Park Rose Garden has been voted one of the country's best rose gardens numerous times and features over 3,000 roses. Each year several AARS winning roses are planted in the Rose Garden as we work to continue its beauty and award worthiness. Normally achieving "full bloom" status in late May to mid-June, the Rose Garden is a favorite destination for weddings, baby and bridal showers and family get-togethers all season long. This perfectly manicured rose garden, features cobblestone walkways, white gazebos, and stone bridges.

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY SPECIAL COLLECTIONS LIBRARY & CAMPUS

At Marshall University, spend the afternoon exploring their expansive museum, showcasing exhibits of West Virginia and its surrounding counties throughout history. Their rotating exhibits highlight collections of artifacts, news clippings, memorabilia, artwork, and literature. Explore the museum at your leisure.

Railroad Museum

Instead of displays mounted on the wall or behind the walls of a glass box, this museum is much different. These actual train cars are open to visitors to get a hands-on experience! Climb in and explore the interior and exterior of different train models throughout history and learn what set them apart. You will have the opportunity to explore the H-6 Baldwin Steam Locomotive, Operation Lifesaver Caboose, C&O Caboose, H.K. Porter 0-4-0 Saddle-Tank Switcher, CSX Diesel Cab, and the C&O Speeder Car!

Touma Medical Museum

The Touma museum is a private medical history museum in downtown Huntington, West Virginia. It was created by Dr. Touma, a resident of Huntington who still works as a medic. The museum features weird, antiquated doctor's equipment, such as foot-driven dentist drills and tonsil guillotines.

A Day at the Museums

Step back in time, as we adventure to a time where oneroom schoolhouses, blacksmith shops, country stores, and log homes filled American lands. This journey will unveil the hardships of the past, bringing a new appreciation to the present-day luxuries.

Our first stop will bring us to the Heritage Farm Museum and Village, just outside of Huntington, West Virginia. This beautiful museum perched within the Appalachian Mountains, features 16 authentic buildings, accurately portraying life as it was "back then." As we make our way from building to building, we will see the progress of the quality of life throughout history, as our personal reenactor guides us through a series of historic museums, including the Transportation Museum, Country Store Museum, Progress Museum, Industry Museum, and the Heritage Museum!

Our adventure will continue as we then make our way to the Huntington Museum of Art, where we will enjoy a self-guided experience. This interactive museum boasts world-class fine art with displays of American and European works, glass, folk, Asian, silver, Haitian, fire arms, and sculptures! After making your way throughout the exhibits and seeing how art has transformed throughout the years, continue on to the tropical plant conservatory and nature trails to soak in the beauty of one of the few things in the world that remains the same throughout history.
