Augusta, Kentucky is located in Bracken County at the confluence of the Ohio River and Bracken Creek. The city offers an incredible long-range view of the picturesque river valley, known to be one of the most stunning views of the valley in the state of Kentucky. Augusta was regarded as one of the most popular shipping ports during the agricultural growth era. Tobacco, hemp, livestock, and wine were frequently exported from Augusta to surrounding areas. Today, the city continues to grow and welcomes visitors of all ages!

ROSEMARY CLOONEY MUSEUM

Located on the banks of the Ohio River in historical Augusta, KY, this was Rosemary Clooney's retreat from the demands of her career and a haven for rest between performances all over the world. The foundation was established to preserve the house, to open it to the public and to house memorabilia from her life and career. Stop at the former home of Rosemary Clooney to get an in-depth look at her life and also houses the world's largest collections of "White Christmas" Memorabilia.

Tour through the Main's home on Riverside Drive that was built in 1797. It was once owned by John Boude, who originally started the ferry here in Augusta. This beautiful home and it's perfectly manicured gardens are bound to be a stop to amaze. Hop-off here to get a glimpse at a life of luxury.

If you're feeling adventurous, browse the 1811 Jail in Appleman Park. It is the oldest intact jail in Kentucky and housed prisoners well into the 1970's. Prior to 1838, slaves were captured and sold here as well. Explore the first floor, which was the prisoner's quarters and has been fully restored to its original conditions. This interesting piece of Augusta history will uncover stories of the past.

The oldest commercial estate winery in America with its original land. It was built by German immigrants that settled in the area and produced fine wines of the "America's Rhineland" in the mid 1800's. The historic Abraham Baker wine cellar is restored and newly named in the German tradition, Baker-Bird Winery. That is, the name is based on Baker, who built the winery and Bird, who currently owns the winery. The Baker-Bird brand denotes high quality wines. The winery, housed in a beautiful building, which is listed on the United States National Historic Registry, the Heritage Trail, and the Freedom Trail, offers tastings of their award-winning wines in their original pressing room!

ARK ENCOUNTER: A JOURNEY OF BIBILICAL PROPORTIONS

Join us as we depart the docks of the American Queen, on a journey of biblical proportions towards a life-size Noah's Ark! Here, guests will witness time turned back from the modern age into the world of Noah himself, as described in the Old Testament of the Bible.

As we pull into the site, an Ark Encounter representative will board our bus and take the one-mile long journey to the biggest timber-frame structure in the world.

As our destination approaches, a full-scale ark replica stretches across the horizon, offering your first real-life glimpse at this modern engineering marvel, as it is brought from your vivid imagination and into larger-than-life reality. Upon arrival, step out into the shadows of the gargantuan structure and prepare to explore at your leisure.

Spend the afternoon making your way through the 3-story ark, passing more than 132 Ark Bays, which are filled with world-class exhibits. Each one presents thought-evoking topics with state-of-the-art technology and awe-inspiring creations.

Uncover the story of Noah's life and how this average man was chosen for such a significant task. Discover the animals onboard, represented by life-like, hand-crafted replicas residing in the cargo crates throughout the ark. Discover how the animals were collected, fed, watered, and cared for.
